

We make the following extract from the speech of Hon. Horace Greeley, delivered at Bennington last Saturday.

Alluding to the beginning of work upon the new Lebanon Springs Railroad he took the ground that the more railroads there were, the more business would spring up to feed them. He was in favor of all railroad projects, he favored the Pacific Railroad, which was one day to make New York and San Francisco stations on the great highway between Europe and China. The new enterprise, generous and wise, he hoped, would give an outlet to the products of this section, the people of which now had a railroad running against a stamp at it were, and affording them no positive good. Whatever was manufactured in Bennington and Western Vermont would meet a ready sale in New York, and he believed that were seven new railroads constructed to the city markets, they would create wealth and manufactures in Western Vermont. He said there were some who considered the exigencies of the times did not demand the Lebanon Springs railroad, and compared such a class to those who frowned upon the Erie Canal in his own State, yet after its construction, saw its imperative necessity and priceless value. He closed by making a powerful appeal in behalf of the new route, beseeching the friends of the great project not to turn their backs on the enterprise. It was natural a Railroad should run from this section to New York. It would seem that every man who owns land has an interest in an outlet to New York, therefore his hopes, his efforts and his means should be given to the completion of this road, which is to unite the Western Vermont Valley with that great market. His remarks were listened to very attentively throughout, and upon retiring from the stand he was greeted by repeated rounds of applause and music by the band, when the assemblage dispersed.

He was followed by T. W. Park, Esq., who made an able and elaborate speech, detailing the benefits which must result to the citizens of Bennington and Western Vermont from the construction of the new road, saying that already the increase of the value of property in the town of Bennington was more than double the amount of that town's subscription to the enterprise. He expressed a belief that by its construction the grand list of the town would more than double in five years, and as the contractor for building the road, he was determined to complete it within the allotted time and for the stipulated price, notwithstanding the division of sentiment regarding its construction, which no one regretted more than did himself. At the close of his remarks he was greeted by three cheers and music by the band, when the assemblage dispersed.

NOTICE OF NEW BOOKS.—In press and shortly to appear, "The Life and Public Services of the late Town Treasurer of Manchester," with marginal notes by the auditors of the town.—This will be a work of great interest to our tax payers and will illustrate the wonderful sympathy for their rights manifested in certain quarters.

A CHEERING SIGHT.—We noticed one day last week, a long train of horses and carts passing through our village enroute for the Lebanon Spring Railroad. We understand that men and teams are pouring in from all quarters and work on the road is progressing rapidly. We hope our Troy friends and their all-li's will "keep talking."—Work is the order of the day with us. We think we shall dig out by June 1st, 1868. All those in favor of that motion, will say aye at the polls.

Magnolia Water.—A delightful toilet article—similar to Cologne, and at half the price.

Thousands have been changed by the use of the Fervous Syrup in profusion of broil from weak sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy and happy men and women, and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial. For Dyspepsia and Debility it is a specific.

The perfumed light Steals through the mist of alabaster lamps, And every air is heavy with the breath Of orange flowers that bloom In the midst of the room.

Such was the flowery land filled with beauty and life-preserving products, where Dr. Drake discovered the chief ingredients of his wondrous Tonic Medicine—PLANTATION BITTERS—the enchanted tropical island of St. Croix. The PLANTATION BITTERS, combining all the medicinal and tonic virtues of the healing and life-sustaining products that nature creates are without doubt the World's Greatest Remedy for Hypertension, Low Spirits, and all other Stomachic difficulties.
